Point-of-Care and Emergency Management

Edited by Drs. James H. Nichols, T. Scott Isbell, and Nichole Korpi-Steiner

Seeking submissions in the following areas:

- ▶ Novel strategies for emergency management
- ▶ Emerging technologies for point-of-care testing and diagnostics
- ▶ Cardiac troponin testing
- ▶ Disaster relief
- ▶ Military deployment
- ▶ Infectious disease testing

The Journal of Applied Laboratory Medicine (JALM) is pleased to announce an upcoming special collection titled "Point-of-Care and Emergency Management." This issue will include articles on cardiac troponin testing, disaster management, and emergency management and will highlight the technical and clinical challenges associated with point-of-care testing in emergency scenarios.

Be a part of JALM's special collection!

JALM invites authors to submit original articles and case reports related to emergency point-of-care for consideration in this special collection.

Journal guidelines for submission apply as described in the information for authors.
